Ground will be broken Monday for one of the major research units of the Atomic Energy Commission's Scioto Laboratories to be operated here by the Monsanto Chemical Co., it was announced today.

Announcement of the start of the first major construction phase of the $5,000,000 atomic energy research project underway in the Scioto Ordnance Works area, was made to The Star by Larry Schulenburg, Monsanto public relations representative, in a call from St. Louis, Mo.

Key Officials Coming

Key officials at the Monsanto Central Research Laboratories in Dayton and at the Miamisburg atomic energy installation will be on hand Monday for the event, Schulenburg said.

They will include Kenneth A. Dunbar, Dayton area manager for the AEC, Dr Malcolm Haring, laboratory director at the Miamisburg laboratories, and Prescott Sandidge, former director of the Clinton laboratories at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and now assistant director at the Monsanto Central research department at Dayton.

The local OSES office has furnished the two construction companies with laborers, carpenters and track workers, Fred B. Scherff indicated that from 50 to 60 local laborers, trackmen and carpenters in addition to stenographers and office workers had been placed so far.

The Monsanto company has indicated that up to 1,000 workers will be needed in completing the project. Project manager C. A. Budnik, of Dayton indicated in a talk to the local Rotary Club this week that at peak operation of thenew plant, upward of 500 people will be employed with a weekly payroll of approximately $75,000.

Marion To Take Part In Ohio Auto Safety Check

Marion will take part again this year in the third annual police traffic safety check program sponsored yearly over the state by the Ohio Chiefs of Police association and the state highway patrol.

Announcement of Marion's participation in the program was made today in answer to numerous questions from local motorists.

"The annual traffic check program, which will be held sometime during July, appears to have become a permanent fixture here," Chief of Police W. E. Marks said today.

Inquiries Made

"Since the middle of April people have been calling and dropping into headquarters asking when their cars could be inspected and their new windshield stickers issued. Ohio has no compulsory vehicle inspection, as do many other states. The annual police inspection is not offered as a substitute but is performed free of charge for the motorist by city police, sheriff's department, and highway patrolmen as a public service in the interests of safer motoring for the driver and greater highway safety for all," said Chief Marks

During the past three years Ohio has led all other states each year in the number of vehicles checked through free voluntary inspection. In the 1947 Safety check, 193 police departments took part and Ohio police and state highway patrolmen inspected 358,225 vehicles. Of this number 68,654 were found to have one or more defects.

Chief Eugene Weatherly of the Cincinnati police department will sreve as state chairman of the safety check program with Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the state highway patrol and Chief W. L. Sweet of Springfield police department as his vice chairmen.

State representatives of the safety check committee will visit Marion between now and July to deliver latest instructions in checking . technique and bring stickers, pamphlets, and posters for use during the check period. All local law enforcement agencies here will cooperate according to information received today by Chief Marks.

Wallace Fans In Ohio Battle

Settle Down to Legal Battle, Plan To Take Ballot Ban to Supreme Court.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 5 — Henry Wallace supporters settled down today to a legal battle to get their favorite's name on the Ohio ballot in November.

They had the word of Wallace himself that the fight would be carried to the Ohio supreme court.

In an interview in New York, the third party presidential candidate said Ohio's Secretary of State Edward J Hummel had used "police state methods" to bar him from the ballot.

"We shall, of course, challenge the decision of Ohio Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel to keep the party off the November ballot in that state," Wallace said

Hummel, said Wallace, "has in effect commanded the people of Ohio to be good little Democrats or good little Republicans"

Claims Rights Denied

He said Hummel was acting "as a one-man prosecutor, jury and supreme court," denying "the right of tens of thousands to vote as free citizens in November"

Wallace said he would take the the case to the supreme court of Ohio "to find out whether the United States of Amrica, as we know it and believe in it, still exists."

Secretary of State Hummel ruled yesterday that Wallaces' name should not be permitted on the November ballot. His ruling came in a letter to Nathan R. Zahm of Cleveland, administrative director of the Ohio Wallace-for-President committee. The letter dealt with the loyalty affidavit filed by that committee.

Hummel said he acted under a law, enacted in 1941, designed to bar from the ballot "parties, or groups, engaged in un-American activities."

Hummel did not give specific reasons for his decision. The letter merely said he had investigated the facts in the affidavit.

TRUMAN MOVES INTO NEBRASKA ON SCHEDULE

Continues Vote Drive with Out-in-Open Appeal: Second Major Speech Tonight.

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, June 5 — President Truman arrived in Omaha today in the midst of a cross-country speaking campaign keyed to his championship of seven "goals of abundance"

He moved into Nebraska with his open appeal for November votes after four platform talks yesterday and a major speech in packed Chicago stadium last night.

Taken together, the speeches left no doubt that the President's 8,500-mile, 18-state speaking tour is that of an out-in-the-open candidate.

His schedule here will include a second major, prepared address at 10 p. m. (EST) before the annual reunion of the 35th division with which he served in World War I.

One of his hosts is Edward McKim, Omaha insurance man, and one of his "buddies" in Battery D of the 129th Field artillery McKim served briefly at the White House in 1945 as chief administrative assistant to the President.

To Visit Boys Town

An automobile trip to Boys Town, near Omaha, was just one of a series of engagements.

The "seven goals of abundance" outlined last night in his Chicago speech before approximately 22,000 persons attending the Swedish Pioneer Centennial association meeting were: laws providing adequate housing, health, expanded social security, "full rights of citizenship," universal free schooling, good jobs at fair wages and "a brake on inflation."

Mr. Truman is due to arrive in Omaha at 8:30 a. m. (EST). He is to join a parade of war veterans before he attends a private noon luncheon at the Fontonelle hotel. This afternoon he is to visit Boys Town. Later he will dedicate a war memorial park and then attend a reception at the Omaha home of Edward McKim.

He will speak tonight primarily on his farm policy goals, although he likely will touch on his hopes for a draft and universal training.

Family Joining Him

Mrs. Truman and his daughter Margaret will join him in Omaha Sunday and continue with him through the Pacific northwest and California.

The President last night made frequent attacks on the Republican-controlled congress, telling the Chicago crowd that congress could crush Communism by providing a greater "abundance."

He did not mention the Nixon-Mundt bill by name, but he declared "you can prevent Communism by better democracy."

"You can not stop the spread of an idea by passing a law against it," he said.

He drew his bow on congress earlier in a railroad side address at Gary, Ind., when he accused it of serving the "men who have all of the money" instead of the "common people."

Makes Bid for Votes

He blamed congress' failure to follow his recommendations on price control for high living costs.

In his Chicago stadium speech he said that congress should pass a displaced persons immigration bill without proposed "crippling amendments."

The President made an outright bid for November votes in his Gary, Ind, speech. Saying the American economy must be "sound and solid" to support world peace, he declared:

"If you support me, we will probably get it."

JEWS REPORT YIBNA RETAKEN

Israeli Cut Off Egyptians in Coast Drive; Naval Battle Fought Off Tel Aviv.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, June 5—Israeli forces have recaptured Yibna, peak of the Egyptian thrust into Jewish territory, and have cut off a "considerable" force of Egyptians who drove up the coast on the road to Tel Aviv, the Jewish high command reported today.

Israeli headquarters said yesterday's Egyptian naval sortie into Jewish waters off Tel Aviv may have been an attempt at a "little Dunkerque" to remove the coastal spearhead. The Jews reported last night their planes and coastal guns routed four Egyptian vessels in the first naval skirmish of the Palestine war.

Reports in Conflict

There were conflicting reports on the battle for Jenin, top of the Arab triangle in northern Palestine. An Iraqi communique in Baghdad last night said 5,000 Jews were routed there with a loss of 580 killed and 1,000 wounded, but Jewish headquartrs in Tel Aviv said Israeli forces continued to "hold all positions captured in this sector."

The Jews reported Arabs rushing reinforcements to meet the threat to the Nablus-Jenin-Tulkarm triangle, but said Arab counterattacks were repulsed.

Yibna, on the coastal highway to Tel Aviv, is five miles inside territory claimed by the state of Israel and 15 miles south of the Tel Aviv-Jaffa area

Confers with Premier

The Jewish communique said the Egyptians attempted to break out of a trap and suffered losses in armor.

The United Nations mediator seeking to set a date for a four-week truce in the Holy Land conferred for 90 minutes with Premier Nokrasky Pasha of Egypt today and planned to leave for Beirut, Lebanon, Haifa and Amman, Trans-Jordan. He denied a report from Amman that he had fixed Monday for the beginning of the truce.

MANSFIELD, June 5—More than a score of Ohio farm leaders and conservation authorities meet today at Louis Bromfield's Malabar farm to plan the second frontier show Sept. 23 and 24 at the Rio Grande college farm. The organization is formally known as the Ohio valley second frontier advisory board.

Record Crowd Expected At Benefit Game Tonight

The largest single-game baseball crowd of the young Ohio-Indiana league season is expected at Lincoln park tonight when the Marion Cubs meet the Portsmouth Athletics in the combined Harding and St. Mary Booster clubs' benefit ball game.

With an assist from the weatherman who has limited the Cubs to but two or three good baseball nights in their home games so far, the total crowd might reach 3,500 or more, which would be well over twice the size of the opening day crowd of 1,574 paid admissions.

Should tonight's game be rained out, tickets to the Booster game will be honored on the night of Wednesday, June 9, when the Springfield Giants will be Marion's opponent.

The Boosters, who had set their aim high, hoping to sell 10,000 tickets to the affair, expecting every family in Marion to buy a ticket to the game, the proceeds of which will go toward building up athletics in the city's public and parochial schools. The Boosters club took over the campaign after sponsoring one in the city's junior and senior high schools. The school campaign resulted in the sale of 2,100 tickets and it is expected that the Boosters club will sell 1,400 more before game time.

Tickets will be on sale at the gates tonight.

Immediately preceding the game, prizes valued at $600 will be awarded winners of the school campaign.

The grand prize, which was won by Paul J. Menzer of Harding, is a $125 diamond ring. Menzer, a sophomore, sold over 200 tickets.

Other prizes include sports equipment, bonds, and season passes to the Cubs' home games.

Master of ceremonies for the pre-game ceremonies will be Jim Graner of radio station WMRN.

GOP DELEGATE GROUP SET TO MEET SUNDAY

Will Convene in Columbus To Organize for National Convention.

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, June 5 — The Ohio delegation to the Republican national convention is scheduled to meet here Sunday to elect a state chairman and organize for the June 21 convention in Philadelphia.

All members of the delegation —44 pledged to favorite son Sen Robert A Taft and nine to Harold E. Stassen—were invited to attend the 1 p m. meeting.

State GOP Chairman Fred Johnson said the delegates would also elect a vice chairman and secretary and designate members of various committees to be named for the convention.

Sen. John W. Bricker, Ohio's junior senator, was expected to be named chairman of the delegation. Sen. Bricker has announced that he will place the name of Sen. Taft before the convention for the presidential nomination.

Bricker Rated "Dark Horse"

Sen. Taft and Mr. Stassen are two of the leading GOP presidential hopefuls but Sen. Bricker has recently been mentioned with increasing frequency as the dark horse who might run off with the prize.

Sen. Bricker, who was the unsuccessful GOP vice presidential nominee in 1944, stepped aside early in the 1948 race to allow Sen Taft an open field in running for nomination.

Mr. Johnson, a resident of Zanesville and delegate to the convention, announced that he will make a number of trips into midwestern states at the request of Sen. Taft before the convention opens.

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, (R-Ohio), Sen. Taft's campaign manager, and other Taft workers are claiming that the senator will have more first ballots than any other candidate. Mr. Stassen and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York also make the claim.

It was expected that most of the Stassen delegates, elected at the May 4 primary over Taft pledged men, would attend the organization meeting.

FORD PRICE INCREASE ANNOUNCED TODAY

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, June 5—The Ford Motor Co. today announced a price increase of from $85 to $125 on its new 1949 Ford. Henry Ford II said the increase will average 8.7 per cent

The new Ford goes on public display June 18.

The 1948 Ford carries a delivered price ranging from $1,154 to $1,972. These prices do not include transportation charges, state sales taxes or optional equipment.

Prices of the new cars were not listed by model.

Ford announced the increase in a circular which he termed "a personal message to all employes of the Ford Motor Co."

It was the first boost in Ford prices since Aug. 24, 1947, when they went up from $20 to $97. Previously, on Jan. 15, 1947, Ford reduced his prices from $15 to $50.

On last April 22 Ford announced that its new Lincolns would sell from $170 below to $395 above the former list prices The Mercury line was boosted from $315 to $420 on April 28.

Other '49's Yet To Come Out

Ford's chief competitors in the low-price field, Chrysler Corp. and General Motors Corp., have yet to bring out their 1949 models. They are expected before the end of the year.

Ford's letter to his employes said in part:

"Because of sharp increases in the cost of everything we buy that goes into our cars, our annual bill for materials and parts already is $145,000,000 more per year than it was two years ago. Even without a new wage increase, past increases in wages and salaries will cost us $120,000,000 more this year than in 1946."

The CIO United Auto Workers, demanding a 30-cent an hour increase in wages, plan to open negotiations with Ford June 14

Ford said the new model Fords "are newly designed, newly engineered from top to bottom" and cost the company $90,000,000 in new tools to build them.

Of his firm's customers, the president of the company added: "I wish we were able to tell them at this time that every one of our new and better cars will sell for less. That is still our goal and we're still hammering away at this job of getting costs down."

BOB FELLER WINS SUIT

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, June 5—Federal Judge Charles Dewey has dismissed claims of a Davenport, Ia., promoter against Bob Feller, Cleveland American League pitcher. The promoter, Ray Doan, had asked a total of $42,500 from Feller charging the baseball player broke an agreement whereby Doan contended he was to manage Feller's activities during the 1945 off-season. The case was tried at Davenport two weeks ago and the ruling was announced last night.

FLOOD FIGHTERS GET GOOD NEWS

Peak To Be Lower Than Expected; First Vanport Dead Found.

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore., June 5—The flooding Columbia river, bearing down with new pressure on the water-ravaged northwest, will not reach the high peak of June 1, a revised forecast said today.

Elmer Fisher, river forecaster, said the Snake, which pours into the Columbia below Pasco, Wash., was lower this morning than expected. As a result, the Columbia, standing here at 29.5 feet and at Vancouver, Wash., at 29.7 today, is expected to go up three-tenths of a foot tomorrow, stay at the same point Monday, then fall six inches in the next two days.

The new forecast puts the crest three-tenths of a foot under the old at Vancouver—but still an even 15 feet over the level where the river leaves its banks.

The change brightened the picture for weary fighters of the flood, but even at its present level the river is a battering hazard.

There is no way of knowing what new construction may be added to the toll already taken by savage blows of the Columbia and Fraser rivers in the United States and Canada this spring:

1. Twenty-six dead, The city of Vanport, drowned by the blowout of a Columbia dike Memorial day, spewed its first bodies last night—both children torn by the boiling waters from the arms of their fleeing parents.

2. An estimated $140,000,000 damage in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia. Fertile farms flooded, homes of almost 60,000 person inundated or isolated, industries stopped, communications snarled, transportation cripped,

The first flood — down only inches from its peak—still hammers constantly at ever-softening dikes. The pounding will go on every minute, every hour until the new crest crashes down the Columbia's 1200-miles to the Pacific—if the levees hold that long.

Now it is a battle against time. Build up the dikes. Plug up the holes. And pray.

AFTER PROD, LEWIS READY FOR HEARINGS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5 — Prompted by a sharp prod from Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, John L. Lewis was ready to reopen contract negotiations with the soft coal operators on Monday.

The order to negotiate does not necessarily mean an early agreement will be reached. Along with the expected union demand for wage increases, there is the stumbling block of pension funds.

Only four weeks remain to sign a contract before the present agreement expires June 30.

While the miners customarily do not work without a contract, the current one allows a vacation from June 26 to July 5. Any strike threat by the 400,000 soft coal miners might therefore be delayed until the later date.

Goldsborough, who twice before has cracked down on Lewis, signed an injunction yesterday directing the UMW and its presi-

6-FOOT WAVE STRIKES SHORE ALONG L. ERIE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 5—A six-foot wave which struck the Lake Erie shore from Lorain to Cleveland last night left several battered rowboats in its wake today, the local coast guard station reported.

Four fishmen on a jetty at Perkins Beach were swept into the water, and two of them were treated for cuts and bruises. The others were unhurt.

Coast guardsmen said the wave was variously estimated at three to six feet in height. It broke up beach picnic parties, battered five boats at the Clifton Yacht club, and did minor damage to docks. The coast guard said there was no evidence of major damage.

Weather observer A. S. Klemetsmo explained the phenomenon as a common summer occurrence known as a "seiche"—caused by sudden variations in barometric pressure, a drop in temperature and an abrupt shift in the wind. The wind velocity was 14 to 18 miles an hour.

At Sheffield lake, about six miles east of Lorain, police chief Henry Miller said eight-year-old Richard Pennycook Jr., of Cleveland was knocked into the water by the wave while fishing. His father rescued him.

YMCA Launching "Learn To Swim" Campaign, Gives Water Safety Advice

The annual YMCA "Learn to Swim Campaign," running through June 7-18, will be open to all fifth and sixth graders of Marion, Bob Minard, athletic director of the Y, who is in charge of the program, announced today. Classes will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings and afternoons for the boys, and Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for the girls. Minard and his assistants John Gray, James Wanner, James Cusick and Phyllis Badgely, will direct the classes.

In conjunction with the classes being held by the YMCA to teach swimming in actual practice, hazards of the sport and means of combatting them are also outlined. Excerpts from an article on water safety as taught by the YMCA and prepared by Minard follows:

SUMMER MEANS swimming-time to millions of young Americans, and to a great many older ones, too. But, judging by past swimming seasons, the summer will also mean the end of six or seven thousand American lives. Last year 6,500 persons met death by drowning in the seas, lakes, ponds and waterways of this nation. These were tragic deaths, and particularly sad is the fact that most of them need not have happened if simple rules of water safety had been learned and practiced. The first step toward water safety is to learn to swim, and to swim well.

Those who can't swim well should not only stay out of deep water, but should also stay out of canoes and other small craft that are likely to capsize. If you do go out in a boat or canoe, remember that it will remain afloat even when overturned. Cling to it, do not strike out blindly for the shore.

As children are victims in a majority of water accidents, they should be encouraged—but not forced—to learn to swim. They should learn to swim in well-guarded pools under competent adult instructors. They should not be entrusted to the mercies of water-wings or old inner tubes in unguarded pools.

DANGERS LURKING in still waters are death traps to careless swimmers. Almost any body of water looks inviting on a warm day, but with waterholes, as with people, it is wise to get acquainted before accepting invitations. The safe places to go swimming are areas that are reserved and maintained for that purpose and adequately protected. The bottom of the unsupervised pond or lake may be a veritable death trap. They are perhaps the most dangerous of swimming places, and, no matter how hot the day, or how inviting the water—do not plunge into unguarded waters. Beware of tides and undertows and flooded and swollen streams.

Lone swimmers and rash divers add to the toll of swimming casualties. When going in swimming, two is company, three is better company—and being alone is dangerous. If you have the inclinations of a hermit, seek your solitude elsewhere. With good companions, your swimming will be more fun and much safer. Although a practical swimmer, you might dive against a submerged object, be swept out beyond reach of the shore by a current or suffer a cramp while in deep water. It is much better to have help near at hand. You dive for pleasure, so be certain of the depth of the water. It is no fun to smash against a hidden rock or to plunge into a strong undercurrent you didn't know was there.

TO GET USED to cold water rub it over your legs, stomach, chest and armpits. That way it will not be such a shock to your body or cause your heart to make a difficult adjustment.

If you've just had a heavy meal it's better to wait a while before taking a swim. Being in water shouldn't interfere with your digestion, but excitement and exertion in water will do it no good, and can put a heavy strain on your heart. If you're exhausted and overheated, rest and cool off before taking to the water. Your swimming endurance is limited when you're tired at the start, and too sudden changes in temperature may cause cramps or other illness.

"Avoid needless risk," is a warning given to "Take a Dare" swimmers. "Bet you're scared to swim across the river. I dare you! I dare you!" All too often this challenge, hurled by a teen-age youngster at a swimming companion, has been the prelude to one of the thousands of drownings which occur in this country every year. Most of these "take a dare" drownings happen to teen-agers who seem to think they have to accept any dare no matter how risky, or lose face. It's better any day to lose face than to lose your life. Know your limitations, and always keep an energy reserve for safety.

"SHOWOFFS" are a pain anywhere, but a real menace around water. Do you think it is fun to push people off docks, rocks, boats, or "duck" your friends?

It may be fun to rock the boat or duck unsuspecting bathers, but if your victims can't swim, or should strike their heads on hidden rocks, humor very quickly turns to tragedy. Also, many a "showoff" has to be rescued from his own show. When racing, race toward the shore, not toward mid-stream, then if an accident occurs you will be nearer safety.

Fumbling rescue attempts oftentimes result in two victims rather than one. Courage is always magnificent, but courage alone is not enough to rescue a drowning person from deep water. Also necessary is swimming expertness, physical stamina and the special knowledge that comes from sound training in life-saving methods. To avoid a double tragedy, the following rules for rescuing a drowning person have been set down by the YMCA:

▶In making a rescue, never get into the water yourself unless you absolutely have to. Try to use a pole, a stick or a rope to reach the victim.

▶Never swim to a rescue when you can use a boat.

▶If you must swim, try to take along some means of support such as a board or inflated inner tube.

▶If the victim is near the shore and you can't swim, push a board or other buoyant object out to him so he can hold on until help arrives.

▶If you can't swim, don't try to save a victim in deep water. You will likely only come to grief yourself. If you are ever faced with such a situation, go for help as fast as you can.

▶Every one, whether he can swim or not, should learn and practice the principles of artificial respiration.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

A curvature of the Spine

[illegible] spine may be [illegible] unnoticed, or so severe as [illegible] tort the entire body. A slight bending of the spine [illegible] or the other may result from [illegible] posture during the [illegible] years of early [illegible] one of the many reasons why good habits of sitting and standing are so important.

Where the curve is marked [illegible] disease or faulty development [illegible] usually responsible. Under these headings we think of such things as malformation of the [illegible] spine or hip bones, unusual weakness [illegible] the muscles supporting the spine and such disorders [illegible] infantile paralysis. Even with all these possibilities [illegible] however, it is impossible to find the cause in eight out of ten cases.

Often enough, mild cases go [illegible] discovered until after the [illegible] starts to school, since frequently there are no symptoms at the start. Even a slight curvature will place undue strain on the joints of the spine and the muscles of the back which will eventually cause pain, easy fatigue, and other discomforts.

Unfortunately, up to the present time, no ideal treatment for scoliosis has been found. The aim of the treatment is, of course, to correct the deformity and to keep it corrected.

The treatment depends upon the severity of the disorder, whether the spine is still movable or fixed, and whether arthritis of the joints of the spine has developed.

The first step in the treatment is to make the spine freely movable and develop the strength of the muscles. This is brought about by exercises and manipulation. The exercises should not be limited to the muscles of the back alone, but also to the hips and abdomen.

Of course, when a known cause for the disorder is present and is still active, such as rickets, it should be treated. If the leg lengths are unequal, this also should be corrected.

When the maximum amount of movement of the spine is obtained, a plaster jacket is usually applied. While the patient is in the plaster [illegible] [illegible] fix the bones [illegible] necessary to [illegible] tion.

[illegible] course [illegible] treated only by [illegible] specialist [illegible] made a special study of the bones.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I ALWAYS count on Mary in any emergency. Her agile brain joins hands with her intuition and her facility for quick motion, while her marvelous acting ability makes her what Dicky calls "something for the book."

At Noel's unconscious blunder she rose from her chair abruptly, and stood clinging to the back as if she were about to fall.

"What is it, dearest?" Noel queried anxiously, standing up and rushing to her side. All the rest of us were on our feet, also, but as my eyes went to those of Katharine, of Dicky, and of my father, I realized that they shared my conviction that Mary was putting on a most necessary and plausible act.

"I—I don't know," Mary faltered, leaning against him heavily. "The room seemed to be going around with me. A little dizzy spell, I guess. But—I'd like to lie down. I—I don't want anything more to eat."

"Neither do I," Noel declared promptly. "Shall I carry you into the bedroom, darling?"

"Oh, no," Mary said. "I can walk if I can lean on you."

"I'll just go in with you, and see if she needs anything special," Katharine said, promptly "playing up." Then she deftly skimmed past them and opened the bedroom door.

"I'll go ahead and get her bed ready," she said. "Go on with your breakfast, everybody. I've seen her have these little attacks before. They don't mean a thing; a little indigestion perhaps. She'll be all right after she has rested a bit."

We took our seats again, and Faith brought up a sigh from her shoe soles.

"Gee! I'm glad Cousin Mary isn't going to be sick," she said. "She had me scared into little pieces for a minute there."

"Cousin Noel was scared, too," she went on. "Did you see his face?"

"He ought—" Dicky began gruffly, but over Faith's head, I shook mine at him, and he stopped short. The next instant I was the recipient of one of her bombshells.

"Why did you shake your head at Daddy, Mummy?" she asked, "and make him stop talking? I saw you in the mirror over the mantel," she explained in matter-of-fact terms as I tried to pull my badly-scattered wits together.

"Because," her father said promptly, "your mother was afraid I was going to put my foot in my mouth. I often do that you know, when I open my mouth. Didn't you ever see me do it?"

Faith's laugh rang out with gay skepticism.

"No, and nobody else ever did, either," she said. Then she gave him a long, level look.

"You ought to remember, Daddy," she said, "that I'm not a baby any more. I know all about Santa Claus and I know lots of the things you say, and I used to believe, are just funning. When you say you put your foot in your mouth, you mean you start to say something you shouldn't. Now, I wonder what you started to say about Cousin Noel. What ought he to do, Daddy, and what did he mean by royal play boy and reaching sanctuary, and Cousin Olive being terribly anxious to hear all about it?"

Dicky flashed me a glance of reassurance, and then took the reins in his own hands.

"If you'll finish your breakfast, Faith, without another question about anything, I'll give you a nice surprise," he said.

She gave him an appraising glance.

"Okay!" she said, as she took up her knife and fork again.

She made short work of the rest of her breakfast, but I said no word of reproof. I was too anxious to find out what Dicky meant to do. When she had finished eating, she looked over at her father.

"I'm ready," she said.

"Then, if your mother doesn't object"—he quirked a quizzical knowing eyebrow at me—"I'm going to take you over to my studio. I want you to help me with some new illustrations, and over there, I'll answer all your questions."

REUNION IS HELD BY CAMPBELL SCHOOL

Gathering Also Serves as Farewell to Building.

A basket picnic supper was in the form of a reunion and farewell when pupils and former pupils of the Campbell school and residents of the community met Sunday night at the school. The one-room school, which has been in existence for more than 75 years, is being discontinued. The gathering was in charge of the Campbell Community club.

The time was spent reminiscing and pictures were taken of Mr and Mrs Ralph Bentley and family, all of whom attended the school, Carl Campbell, Robert Campbell and daughter Judy, and others who attended either all or a part of their school years. A picture also was taken of the group. Former pupils and teachers were present from Marion, Cardington and other points.

The first school building, erected in July, 1869, was destroyed by fire. A temporary building was built later to be replaced by the present structure in 1920. Mrs Goldi McLain, who taught the school last year was a teacher there for nine years.

REALTY GROUPS WIN IN ANTI-TRUST SUITS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5—The National Association of Real Estate Boards and the Washington Real Estate Board stand acquitted in federal district court here on a charge that they conspired to fix commissions.

Justice Edward M. Curran on Friday threw out the government's contention that the two groups had violated the Sherman anti-trust law criminal conspiracy provision in attempting to fix fees on real estate transactions.

Attorney for the real estate organizations moved for a directed verdict of acquittal after a trial at which they denied any anti-trust practices.

Judge Curran granted the motions and directed acquittal.

The justice department immediately said it would press a civil suit against the National association and the Washington board. This suit, which also names 15 members of the Washington board, asks a court order against alleged commission charge agreements.

The two real estate organizations were indicted last Aug. 27 as a move in the government's investigating and drive on rising living costs.

How to take 12 worries off your mind

THE FIRST-OF-THE-MONTHS, when the bills fall due, are worrisome days for many of us.

But here's a way you can lighten that pull on your pursestrings—starting in 1958 and continuing for as long as you like:

"Mr. President"

THE circumstances that have caused Mr. Truman to start a political tour of the country at this time mark the low-water mark of presidential prestige in the 20th century.

They have made Mr. Truman the most precariously situated chief executive of his generation. His lot as the heir to the political mixup caused by the disintegration of the New Deal coalition is the unhappiest that has fallen to the head of a party since the time of Grover Cleveland.

The country as a whole is less interested in Mr. Truman's personal and political misfortunes than in what is happening to the dignity of the office he occupies. There have been few times, fortunately, when the bare bones of political expediency were so plainly in sight.

The office of the presidency—the most powerful American symbol of government—has been debased in view of the people whose respect it should command. The "deal" by which a dying chief executive almost passed the presidency to Henry Wallace, but finally settled for Mr. Truman as the vice presidential candidate four years ago this summer, is common knowledge.

The subsequent efforts of Mr. Wallace's followers and other disgruntled New Dealers to discredit Mr. Truman and wreck a party they no longer control have been made in the open. Mr. Truman's frantic effort to recover some of the respect he has not been given by even the members of his own party is being made in the open.

The United States needs a restoration of dignity in the conduct of party government. The whirlwind sown by the machinations of the New Dealers and now being reaped by the whole country is a direct threat to the respect for the office of the presidency which underlies the nation's political stability.

Advice To Young Men

THE ARMY is directing a message to the 400,000 young men graduating from high school this month. While it is pointing out the service's job security and chances for travel and promotion, it is emphasizing the fact that enlistees have a chance to continue their education.

The postwar Army is becoming an organization of specialists, men with skills that also will stand them in good stead in civilian life. To those who show leadership ability, every opportunity is provided to direct their careers along lines that eventually will give them officer training.

Any young man just out of high school whose plans are indefinite, or who isn't fully satisfied with the course he has mapped for himself, would do well to investigate the opportunities the Army offers.

Election Analysis

THERE is the same reason to be skeptical about conclusions jumped at after elections in Europe as there is in the United States.

The conclusion-jumpers have a habit of making assumptions that cannot be squared with what happened at the polls.

For example, they usually assume that a vote for a certain party, such as the Communist party in European elections, represented an affirmative decision by the voter for that party. The truth may be that the vote was a protest against a competing party. In years past, thousands of Americans have voted for Socialist candidates for president on this basis; they were protesting against the platform and record of the major parties.

Apparent Communist gains in the recent municipal elections in the American zone of Germany may be subject to this same interpretation. Germans may not have been voting for Communists but against candidates of the parties favored by the United States. As in Greece and Italy, Communist strength in Germany is an illusion created by dissatisfaction with other political organizations. It is helpful to remember that in the United States the apparent strength of the New Deal was created by protest psychology. Certainly, the New Dealers never forgot it. Even in 1944 they still were exploiting the anti-Hoover sentiment on which they rode to power in 1932. It was their stock in trade.

The Communist party has nothing to offer in Europe except an outlet for resentment against the shortcomings of other parties. That is the Communist line throughout the world. It is the reason why Communists do everything they can to stir up bitterness and disorder so they can capitalize on popular resentment.

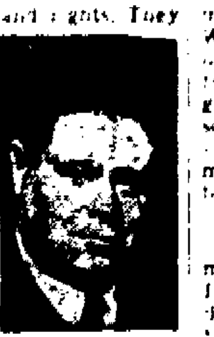
Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Declaration of Human Rights.

THE first 10 amendments to the Constitution of the United States, called the Bill of Rights, are clear. The 42 articles of the Draft International Declaration of Human Rights, drawn up by Eleanor Roosevelt's committee of the United Nations, is a hodgepodge of ideological contradictions, beyond the possibility of enforcement anywhere. Take article 1 as a starter:

"All men are born free and equal in dignity and rights. They are endowed by nature with reason and conscience, and should act toward one another like brothers."



SOKOLSKY

We can agree that all men should be born equal, but are they born free? Freedom is a juridical term of variable interpretation. Is a man born free if he is born in a country where freedom of movement, or freedom of choice in political ideas is prohibited? Does this article then advocate a revolution against the [illegible] government? [illegible] All men cannot be entitled to respect in the realm of human dignity because they are so graced by God. Does that mean that UN solves the Negro problem in the United States by the precepts of Article 1 of its declaration of human rights?

Definition Needed

Further, how does one define in law the phrase that all men "should act toward one another like brothers"? If this is a homily on good conduct, then we understand what is meant and praise Mrs. Roosevelt for the virtuous intent of her committee, but if this draft is eventually to be a treaty and the law of the land, the phraseology needs to be closer to an enforceable criterion.

Article 2 is even tougher. Here it is:

"In the exercise of his rights everyone is limited by the rights of others and by the just requirements of the democratic state. The individual owes duties to society through which he is enabled to develop his spirit, mind, and body in wider freedom."

Freedom of speech and the press is a categorical right, but it may also be a nuisance. I might write something in this column which definitely interferes with some rights of others. Westbrook Pegler does it all the time with rare facility. For instance, his exposure of the GURU letters put a crimp in Henry Wallace's status. Does not this limitation—so broadly stated—really negative all human rights? For instance Zhdanov, one of Stalin's proposed successors, recently forbade Soviet composers to write music which displeases him. Would he be forbidden to do that under this provision? We limit freedom of expression on four grounds: It must not be libelous, scandalous, salacious or malicious and it is still unsettled, after many centuries, what these limitations really are.

We're A Republic

Also what are "just requirements of the democratic state"? In the first place, what is a "democratic state"? By no definition is the United States a democratic state. It is a representative republic, acting within the margins of a written Constitution which establishes limitations upon the powers of government in defense of the inalienable rights of the individual. This country does not live by majority rule but rather by compromises among varieties of geographical and social groups. Certainly Soviet Russia is not a "democratic state." It is an oligarchy ruling through the agency of an elite to which a total population is bound by iron law.

In Article 1, we are told that "all men . . . are endowed by nature with reason and conscience" but in Article 2 it is "society through which he is enabled to develop his spirit, mind and body in wider freedom." "Reason and conscience" include "spirit, mind and body," so we are talking about the same thing.

Nature, however, is a very broad term which may be translated variously. Suppose we assume the Christian term, God, to be equivalent to the United Nations term, "nature." That term is cosmic and includes all that was, is or ever will be and therefore what is generally called society.

Furthermore, in the history of man there have been many varieties of "society," some as evil as the devil. Was the Russian revolution against the Romanovs, the Turkish revolt against the Sultans, the Chinese revolt against the Manchus an infraction of duties?

Cat and Mouse

BERLIN

EVERY new arrival in Berlin complains of a sense of unreality. Against the impossibly melodramatic backdrop of the ruined city, the life of the American community in the undamaged suburbs, complete with hot dogs, country clubs, Coca Cola and Saturday night hops, seems totally unreal. Yet behind the unreality, there lies one terrible reality: if war is to come, it may well start here. For the Russians, who completely surround the city, are determined to force the Western powers out. There is no doubt at all about that. The only question is how much the Kremlin is willing to risk in the process.

ALSOP

Unfortunately, many observers here believe that the Russians are willing to risk a great deal, for two reasons. First, despite every effort of the Soviets to seal off the Westerners, Western influence still seeps out from Berlin into the Russian empire to the east. The Western presence here thus no doubt appears a malignant cancer which must be cut out. Second, and perhaps more important, Soviet plans for employing a revived and controlled German nationalism as an instrument for eventually bringing all Germany within the Soviet sphere can never really succeed while the Western powers remain in Berlin.

Significant Incident

The way in which German nationalism is being used to further Russian ends is not generally realized. A recent closed meeting of the German Communist leaders, presided over by Colonel Tulpanov, chief link between the Soviet command and the Communists, was significant. With Tulpanov smiling benignly, Communist chieftain Walter Ulbricht ordered the assembled Communists to "rid themselves of their old Marxist inhibitions against nationalism" and he sternly warned "old-line Communists" that in this matter they must "submit to the will of the central committee."

To encourage German nationalism [illegible] little encouragement, the Soviets have even gone so far as to establish and support financially a political party called the "National [illegible] Party," quite openly advertised as [illegible] for ex-Nazis. Yet the [illegible] the Communists' [illegible] Congress." The congress is designed to be [illegible] German shadow government, claiming to be the true government of all Germany, and with headquarters in Berlin. But as long as the Western powers [illegible] three quarters of Berlin, the pretensions of the Peoples congress will ring hollow, and the Russians and their Communist stooges know it.

They're Started

The Soviet campaign to correct this situation by forcing the Westerners out [illegible] is already well under way. There has been nothing official. Indeed, Russian General Sokolovsky (a personally likeable man who admires Jane Austen) has never even so much as hinted to American General Lucius Clay that he would be glad to see the last of him. Yet Russian actions, in forcing the Americans to take to the air to supply the American contingent, in stopping road convoys and in cutting off shipments from Berlin to the west, have spoken a great deal louder than words.

Under the firm, wise leadership of General Clay the Americans nevertheless remain, as do the British and the French. It must now be clear to the Kremlin that if this infinitely dangerous game of cat and mouse is to be played to the end, more drastic action will be necessary. Such action, in the opinion of qualified observers here, could take either of two forms.

The first alternative is the obvious one. As one American officer put it, "They can load us on cattle cars bound for Siberia any night they want." The western response to the use of force is equally obvious—war. It is possible that the Kremlin may have concluded that war is inevitable, and that it is better fought now than later. But this appears to be increasingly improbable and is really no longer feared.

The second possible Soviet move is less obvious, and the appropriate Western response is anything but clear. This move is simply to cut, whether overtly or under some pretext, the civilian supply lines from the Western zones to Berlin. For example, the vital Magdeburg bridge over the Elbe might suddenly break down, while fortuitously sunken barges made the canal network into Berlin impassable. The results are entirely foreseeable. The two million people in the western sectors of Berlin would soon begin to starve. For although the Americans here are supplied entirely by air, it is impossible to supply the Germans in the western sectors except by rail and canal shipments from the western zones.

As the starving Berliners rioted, the Soviet authorities might then approach the Westerners, note that the situation was deplorable, and offer to assume the task of feeding Berlin. They would attach one condition: that the Western powers, having no business in Berlin anyway, evacuate the city.

What should the Western powers do then?

That is a question worth pondering, for some such sequence of events as that outlined above is considered here an entirely serious possibility.

Mother's Crazy Quilt

By Frank Tripp

THERE is wisdom in the proverb that man makes himself an ass if he goes about expounding his dreams. So here goes another whirl at making one of myself—for I had a dream, which I here expound.

At sunrise the buzz of fishermen's outboards awakened me in the midst of a priceless fantasy. I was communing with scores of brilliant little squares of cloth, a joyous nostalgic interview. I dreamt that I slept beneath a rhapsody of color, a crazy quilt which my mother made — she and her friends.

TRIPP

Though quite awake, the illusion was so real that I searched my bed covering for the one bright blue square which I knew the best. It was from a little blouse I used to wear.

It was some seconds before I realized that I'm a man now, a rather old one, and that in Anna's room coo-hooed my fifth grandchild, nicknamed "Turk" for his great grandmother, she who made the wonderful quilt under which I fancied I had spent a night I'll long remember.

Why, you sentimental old fool I thought, as retrospection brought me to my creaking age again. Unwilling to dismiss my reverie, I closed my eyes, relieved my dream and saw mother's patchwork quilt as plainly as I did when just a boy—the polkadots, the checks and stripes and plaids of the happy 1880's.

Yes, there was the little blue square, sewed next to one like mother's pretty dress, against which my head had leaned and learned to say my prayers. There was a denim square from my pop's shirt, the kind he worked in on his engine, one of Aunt Lib Turk's apron, one of Elsie Burgess' sun bonnet, a number that I knew. I could find a lot of familiar squares, so often had my mother named them all and told me whence they came, as it by family legend to hand down a directory of friends and kin.

That quilt has gone. 'Twas stolen, and I think I know by whom. 'Twas a mean theft from an old woman but none can rob me of the precious memories of it which are mine.

* * *

Are you old enough to remember how those patchwork quilts got put together at old time quilting parties? Aunt Dinah had one, remember, from which a lovesick swain was "Seeing Nellie Home."

Almost every garment women and their children wore was made at home from piece goods chosen with jealous care. For meetin' gowns and something spruce dressmakers came for a dollar a day and keep. From snatches left, women traded with each other, mostly calicos and ginghams, to give variety to the radiant crazy quilt. When, after many lamplit hours the little pieces were hand-sewed into a bed sized spread, the date was set for the quilting bee. Friends came in to spend the day.

Sometimes they made a comfortable, like this: First underlining was stretched upon a quilting frame. Next the cotton bats were spread, thick for bitter cold, or thin for milder nights. Then the gorgeous patchwork topside was unfurled. The workers paused to name most every square and tell who wore the dress from which it came, with praise for some—or catty words for others' dreadful taste.

* * *

The more agile helpers crouched beneath the spreading frame to receive with nimble fingers and return the threads to which the standing ladies tied fuzzy woolen knots on top.

It was quite some task to make a quilt but when 'twas done it packed much more than warmth. It was an autograph of friends by scores, a diary of bygone days, a catalog of olden styles; an heirloom of skill and thrift, a wondrous work of love and tender sentiment—yesteryear's valentine.

But alas, Runt Dinah's quilt-party is no more. Today's swain sees Nellie home from a night club—more likely takes her to another.

The Quiet After The Sound Trucks

Cuba had a seven-day cooling-off period before this week's presidential elections.

This not only gives the electorate a chance to think things over but also affords the about-to-be defeated candidate an opportunity to evolve an acceptable alibi.

During the week just before the election there were no speeches, no mass-meetings, no clam-bakes . . . Just an occasional hushed smacking as some desperate campaigner engaged in a little last-minute baby-kissing on the sly.

This political curfew is a splendid idea. How refreshing it must be after the bedlam of a [illegible] campaign, to know that the next voice you hear will be that of the people.

Just Fishin'

By TRUMAN TWILL

It's a day in June. Life murmurs and glistens. The sky is marvelously blue overhead and the earth marvelously green underneath. A boy and his dog are walking along the banks of a creek. The boy is whistling. The dog is quivering with excitement over being in the most heavenly place on earth—the countryside on the brink of midsummer.

The boy is carrying a bamboo fishing pole over his shoulder. It's the first real fishing pole he ever had, a great improvement over the tree branches he has used before. The pole is rigged with a real line, a new bobber and a shiny hook with a leader to make it invisible to the fish. All these new and wonderful things are practically guaranteed to catch fish.

In a nearby field a farmer stops his team at the end of a [illegible] and climbs off the seat of the cultivator. He calls to the boy. "Be sure not to pull out the bottom of the creek, Sonny," he says grinning, and the boy replies just as gravely that he will throw back everything over 10 pounds. But [illegible] there are nothing but minnows in the creek, with a few bullheads in some of the deep holes.

Far over the [illegible] of ground is a country church. Its steeple is shimmering in the sunlight. The sound of a distant bell can be heard as the warm breeze veers. A wedding perhaps. Or a [illegible]. It's not Sunday so it couldn't be a [illegible]. The boy wonders if it could be [illegible]. His stomach tells him [illegible]. He assures himself with a touch of the [illegible] under his arm—five sandwiches: [illegible] honey and butter, one egg salad, one [illegible], one currant jelly, one [illegible]. And wrapped with the sandwiches a [illegible] metal cup to catch the [illegible] spring on the hill back of the fishing hole.

He stops to pull a handful of grass to lay over the [illegible] of fish worms. Faith

A Sermonette

By REV. FREDERICK W. LEECH

Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

* * *

"Take the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of evil."

* * *

CHRISTIANS are supposed to have faith. We believe in God, we are to behave as though He existed and was a reliable sort of being who is concerned about our best welfare. But sometimes we find our faith has gone to pieces, we haven't got it.

In every person there is a continual state of warfare existing between one's reason and emotions. This warfare changes in intensity. Reason tells a boy who is learning to swim that an unsupported human body will not necessarily sink in water. It is a fact. He has seen many people float and swim. The whole question is whether he will be able to believe it when the instructor takes his hand away and leaves Johnny unsupported in the water, or whether he will cease to believe it, get in a fright, and go under. IT IS AT THIS POINT ALWAYS IN THE BATTLE BETWEEN REASON AND EMOTION THAT FAITH IS NEEDED.

It is true in Christianity. Suppose a man accepts Christianity on the basis of his reasoning on the evidence in favor of it. Invariably in a few weeks or so there will come a moment of bad news, or some fear or worry, or he will be in trouble, or perhaps he is associating with people who do not believe in Christianity. Then all at once his emotions rise up and carry out a blitz on his belief. Or there will come a moment when he wants to tell a lie, or take that drink he shouldn't, or sees a chance to make some money in an unfair way, some moment in which it would be very convenient if Christianity were not true. Then along comes the blitz on reason by his desires and wishes.

But Faith is the art of holding on to things your reason and best thinking has once accepted, in spite of your changing moods. For whichever view your reason takes, your moods will change. One modern convert to Christianity has said, "Now that I am a Christian, I have moods in which the whole thing looks very unlikely, but when I was an atheist, I had moods in which Christianity looked terribly probable."

This is why Faith is such a necessary virtue. We must teach our moods where to head in. If one does not, he can never be either a sound Christian or atheist, but a creature blown by the winds; dependent on the weather, or the latest headline, or the state of his digestion.

This is why we must train the habit of faith. To train it, we must recognise that we have moods. Then we must deliberately expose ourselves to the teachings and practise of Christianity. To be a good Mason or club member you've got to go to meetings regularly. We are so constructed that we need to be reminded regularly of what we believe. No belief will automatically remain alive in the mind. It must be fed. Of all the people you know who have apparently lost their faith in Christianity, how many of them, do you suppose, were reasoned out of it by honest argument? Do not most people simply drift away through laziness or carelessness?

Therefore, if our Christianity is to mean anything, if it is to have a place of real importance in our lives, if it is to contribute its riches and joy to our daily living, it is necessary to train ourselves in the Christian virtue of faith; we must be faithful to our belief, to our Church. We must learn to tell those moods where to head in. We must learn to hang on to our Christianity in spite of everything.

In our day, in spite of everything seems to be happening. Rumors of more wars abound, our economy is out of joint, millions of people are hungry, unnamed, unnumbered fears and dreads gnaw away inside of each one of us.

Here is our need for trained faith. Trained faith will knock out that fear, that dread inside you. Trained faith will keep us constant in spite of discouragement. Trained faith will show us that our well thought opinions, our votes, our work in civic groups, all have their influence even though it seems a slow, discouraging struggle. Trained faith will keep us working and praying with all our best powers of mind and body to help bring in a real peace and righteousness. Trained faith will teach us to see that the God-inspired Kingdom of Brotherhood among men, although it seems far off, is still the greatest goal for which we finite mortals of numbered days can strive. Trained faith will keep alive in us as reality, not a pipe dream, but fact, the truth that there is another life beyond this one we now live.

Now there is no pill to take at breakfast each day that will give you this trained faith. It is not easy to get. If you want it, you must plug away, keeping constant and steady in the things of your religious life. You must go to church, you must worship and pray. But mere passive Churchgoing will not give you the faith. You must go with the intention of training and strengthening your faith. You must take part in the Church, make its prayers and praise and lessons your own. The minister does not perform for your benefit, nor can he have your faith for you. Nor is it a matter of Sunday alone, your religion must be part of your week day life.

On the wall of a seventeenth century English church there is this inscription: "In the year 1653 when all things sacred were throughout ye nation either demolisht or profaned, Sir Robert Shirly, Barronet, founded this Church; whose singular praise it is to have done the best things in the worst times and hoped them in the most calamitous." The tribute is to faith, for faith is what it takes to do the best things in the worst times and hope them in the most calamitous. It is the kind of trained faith you and I need today. God grant us all, young and old, the wisdom to seek it steadfastly, and the perseverance to find it. May the Master whisper in your heart this day, "Great is thy faith; Go in peace."

"KILLER" DOGS CAPTURED

UPPER SANDUSKY — Dog warden Jack Stalter announced today the sheep losses in Wyandot county in May totaled 38 head valued at more than $400. These heavy losses were reported from Sycamore and Antrim townships where nine "killer" dogs were captured and destroyed last month. Two Sycamore residents were fined $15 and costs recently on charges of failing to keep dogs tied or in pen and under control at night.

CHURCH ARRANGES FOR HOMECOMING

Dr. Harry Bell Will Return To Preach Sermon.

Plans are nearly completed for a combination homecoming and building dedication at Central Christian church on Sunday, June 13. All former members and ministers have been invited to return for the occasion, Rev. Eldred Johnston, pastor, stated.

Dr. Harry Bell, former minister and now minister of the Columbia Heights Christian church in Washington, D. C., will preach at the morning worship service at 9:30 a. m. A basket dinner on the church lawn will be served at noon.

The afternoon program will begin at 2. A brief address will be given by Rev. Melvin Keeran, a former member who is now pastor of the Caledonia Church of Christ. The sermon for the dedication of the church building will be given by Rev. Herald Monroe of Cleveland. Mr. Monroe is state secretary of the Ohio Christian Missionary society.

A vesper service will be held at 7 p. m. Rev. Ray Nash, minister of the Mantua, O. Christian church, and a former member of this congregation will preach the sermon.

The closing event of the day will be an "open house" at the parsonage, 310 Bellefontaine avenue, where Rev. and Mrs. Johnston will receive members and friends of the church from 8 p. m. until 11.

The following are members of the homecoming committees: Cutler McGrew, Berkley Smith, Mrs. Goldie Swope, Miss Catherine Thew, Elmer Weimer, Ralph Tertall, Mrs. Oscar Cross, Eugene Burnap, Mrs. Frances Scott, Miss Leona Scholl, Ollie Schneider, Mrs. Evelyn Hollandshead, Lawrence Sager, Mrs. Bertha Pickering, and Rev. Johnston, ex-officio.

Army Opens Enlistment For Service in Ohio

The U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting station at 184 South Main street today received authorization to enlist former service men and original enlistees for assignments in Ohio.

Former servicemen may be enlisted for recruiting duty in the Mansfield recruiting area of which Marion is a part. Information on this new army program is available at the recruiting station.

Men may now enlist for service with the 4153rd Air Force Base Unit at Municipal Airport, Cleveland, if they can qualify for assignment under the following military occupational specialty numbers: 348 parts clerk automotive, 747 airplane and engine mechanic, 383 fire fighter, 242 toolroom keeper, 405 clerk typist, 502 administration specialist (able to type 35 words a minute). A list of available continental and overseas assignment now open in both the Army and Air Force may be obtained from the local recruiting office at 184 South Main street.

Marriages Outnumber Divorces in County

With the traditional season for weddings at hand, marriages bid fair to outnumber divorce actions in Marion county for the first in the past several months.

Records in the probate court and in the office of the clerk of the common pleas court, show marriage licenses issued during May outnumbered divorce petitions filed 36 to 23.

The court acted on 20 cases, granting 16 divorces to wives and two to husbands while dismissing eight petitions. In cases where petitioners were parents, custody of children found four being awarded to mothers and two to grandmothers. Two persons were restored former name through divorce action.

During the 12 months ending on June 30, 1946, world sugar production was only 27 million tons, as compared to 34½ million tons produced annually in the pre-war years 1935-1939.

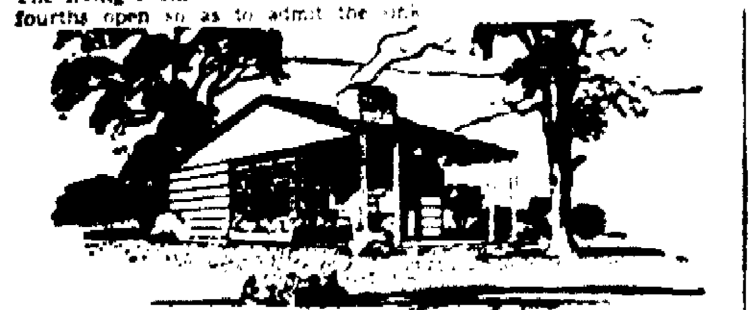
Small and Economical Open Front House



Outdoor living combined with adequate shelter is the keystone of the house plan shown here. The living room walls are three-fourths open so as to admit the maximum of sunlight to the interior. Each of the individual double bunks at the rear of the living room have a high window place above them, and may be built as double or single bunks. There is ample room beneath for spacious drawers or cabinets.

The [illegible] bathroom shown is equipped [illegible] and [illegible] equipped with bottled-gas range and sink.

The large [illegible] is a double [illegible]. The [illegible] facing the living room is designed for warmth and effect, while the section facing the open porch is designed for outdoor cooking.

The [illegible] corner of the living room may appear to be an expensive item for the average [illegible] but in reality it is built in a most [illegible] manner. The corner post of the house is left exposed and one or two of the [illegible] are [illegible] sheathed by either exterior or interior [illegible]. Spacers are set between the studs, and ordinary [illegible] glass is inserted in the openings and sealed in place by quarter-round moldings. The effect [illegible] the [illegible]. Most of the cost [illegible] around the use of [illegible] the walls [illegible] the space.

The plan offered here has a great many expansion possibilities. The [illegible] at the left rear of the living room can be changed into an [illegible] and the sleeping area [illegible] along with the bathroom wall may be eliminated and a door arranged to lead into an addition for further sleeping accommodations. This will also allow for a direct entrance to the bathroom from [illegible] the building. The [illegible] porch area in front of the kitchen can be closed in, and thus provide another room. The entire plan can be turned over or reversed from side to side or from front to back.

Foundations may be of posts, piers, or concrete slab construction. Heat may be furnished from a floor furnace or special utility room built outside of the house walls.

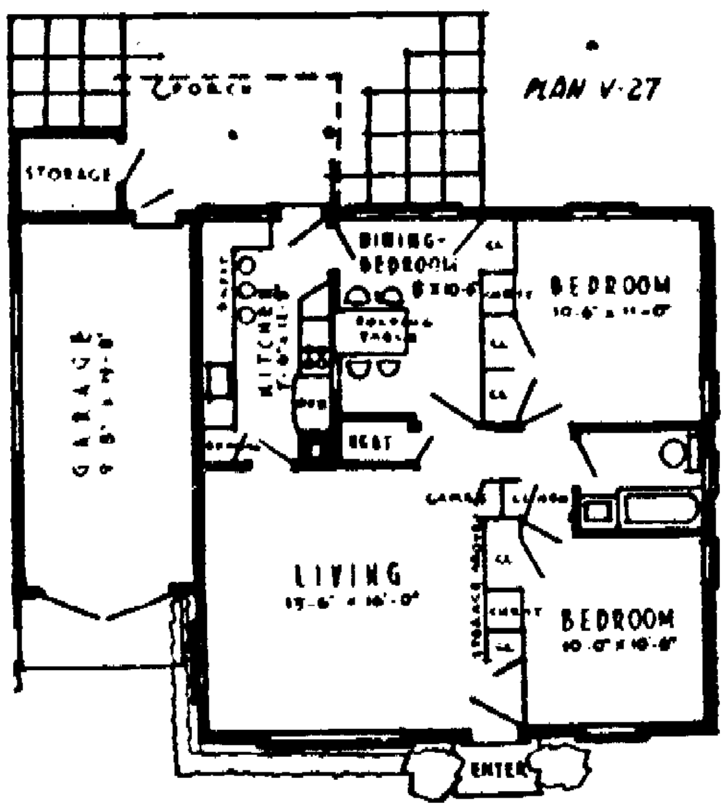
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



A SALT BOX MODERN is the architect's name for this compact cottage of five rooms with six-room capacity. Designed by Jule Robert Von Sternberg, 144 Washington St., Hempstead, N. Y., as his Plan V-27 to solve cost problems, this house covers only 811 square feet. Garage and storage shed add 235 square feet. A non-bearing storage wall of thin plywood extends across the house from floor to roof. Trussed construction gives the living room a high ceiling. Rafters can be left exposed, painted, stained, or covered. Adding to spaciousness is built-in furniture, including chests of drawers and bureau tops with storage space above. A table folds into the wall of the dining room, where a davenport bed will provide an extra bedroom.

Floors Varnished Over Dirt

Q. We have just taken a reconverted apartment. The floors appear to have been given a coat of varnish over [illegible]. I have scrubbed these floors on my hands and knees [illegible] kinds of cleaners, but the floors just look as black as ever. Can you help me?

A. If [illegible] cannot manage to have a floor contractor do this work, you [illegible] be able to rent a floor-sanding machine by the day and have the man explain how to run it. It should be in good condition in order not to gouge the floors. If you cannot manage to get a machine, the next thing to do is to use a commercial varnish remover to soften the varnish, and then scrape it off with a scraper. The dirt will come off at the same time. Only by removing the varnish will you be able to get at the dirt under it.

Refinishing Plasterboard Walls

Q: How can I refinish our plasterboard kitchen walls inexpensively? At present they are papered.

A: It would be well to remove the present paper, using only enough water to soften the paste. The paper envelope of the plasterboard will be roughened and need smoothing. When dry, apply a coat of shellac or varnish-size. This will stiffen the fibres of the

Mortgages Total Declines in Week As Realty Transfers Remain Same

Total valuation of mortgages issued during the week ending May 29 fell off more than 50 per cent over the previous week despite the fact that the number of real estate transfers during that period remained at the same level.

Records in the office of Mrs. Grace Zachman show that there were 34 real estate transfers, same as for the previous week, while the 21 mortgages issued marked a decrease of 11 over the week ending May 22.

Mortgage valuation dropping to an aggregate of $56,825 accented the decline in valuation during the month of May. Figures for the previous weeks were $132,015, $150,000 and $208,850.

Among the real estate transfers listed was transfer of 15 acres in Waldo to the United States government for Delaware Dam reservoir purposes. Seller was Charles D. Miller who received $300 for his property.

Breakdown of the 21 mortgages issued shows nine at $25,250 were issued by loan associations, nine at $25,425 by banks and three totaling $6,150 issued by individuals.

THE REVOLUTIONARY Agcrete Redi-Furred CONCRETE BLOCK...

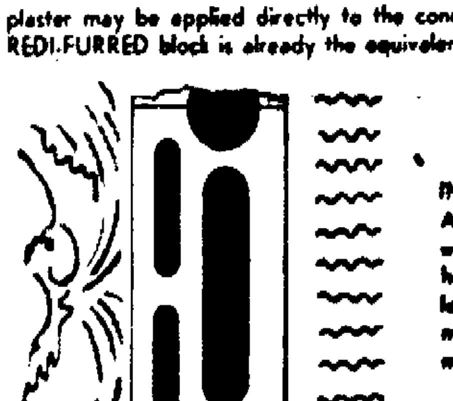
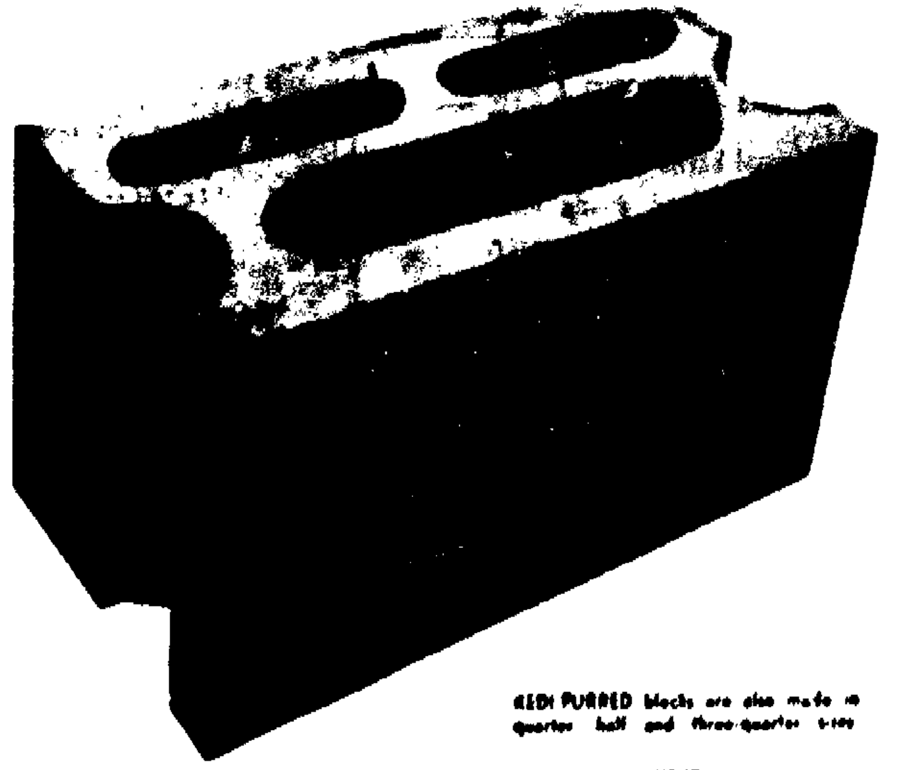
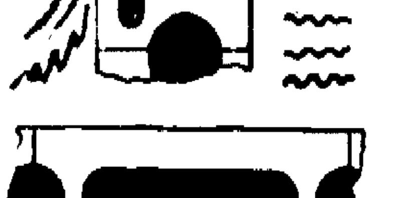
ELIMINATES THE NEED FOR FURRING AND LATHING. Cement plaster may be applied directly to the concrete, because the AGCRETE REDI-FURRED block is already the equivalent of a double wall.



INSULATES AGAINST HEAT AND COLD. This new "double wall" cellular arrangement keeps heat inside during the Winter, and lowers the interior temperature by many degrees during the hot Summer.

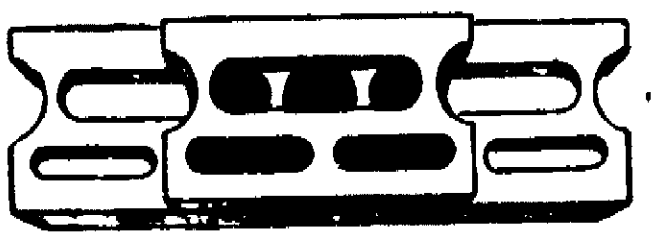


REDI-FURRED blocks are also made in quarter, half and three-quarter sizes.



"BAFFLES" THE CREEPING OF MOISTURE AND FROST. Arrows show moisture and frost seeking to penetrate to the inside wall "baffled" at every point by the staggered air spaces.

LAYS FASTER AND WITH A BETTER BOND. Wide end fin permits easier application of mortar. Three long web joints give a stronger bond between top and bottom blocks. Note the dotted lines which indicate scientifically proven diagonal directions of stress in any type of concrete block. The AGCRETE REDI-FURRED unit is constructed to strengthen the path of such stress.



BLACK AREAS INDICATE OPEN CHANNELS

SIMPLIFIES ELECTRICAL AND PLUMBING INSTALLATIONS by permitting wide interior channels. Circular holes 2½ inches in diameter extend vertically through the wall at horizontal intervals of 8 inches—a fixture passageway unobstructed throughout the depth of the wall.

WORLD'S BIGGEST—"SEES" EIGHT TIMES FARTHER. World's biggest telescope, utilizing a 200-inch, 500-ton mirror (right) is unveiled at Mount Palomar, Calif., by Raymond B. Fosdick (on speaker's stand, middle), president of Rockefeller Foundation, which furnished the $6,550,000 cost. Named for Dr. George Ellery Hale, who conceived the idea, the huge lens stretches man's reach into the universe eight times farther. It could conceivably be a weapon "in the insanity of a final war," Says Fosdick. (International Soundphoto)

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

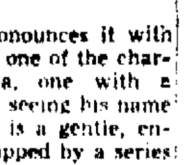
THE greatest cheer leader of our time—"the man who looks like somebody else"—is ready again with a slogan, flag and megaphone.

And that means J. Henry Smythe, the world's most persistent slogan writer, will be a delegate—unofficial as usual—to the Republican national convention in Philadelphia this month.

"I advocate a new deck to succeed the New Deal's long misdeal," said the Republican party's oldest living unpaid press agent. "I won't really get down to coining slogans in earnest until after the convention, of course.

"But here's one for a starter:

"Don't commune with communism — vote Republican."



Hal Boyle

A recent illness has slowed the pep of this silver-haired, 64-year-old veteran, a figure as familar at Republican conventions as the elephant symbol. So he may come up with only 100 or 200 slogans this year, way below par.

Smythe—he pronounces it with a distinct "Y"—is one of the characters of our era, one with a strong aversion to seeing his name out of print. He is a gentle, enthusiastic, man gripped by a series of lifelong cases of hero worship.

HIS CHEER PASSIONS have been slogans, Benjamin Franklin, the American Flag, the Republican party, Teddy Roosevelt, and looking like somebody else. They have kept him so busy he has never, tasted liquor or married.

He first got into the public eye by grabbing a flag and a megaphone after President Theodore Roosevelt had been nominated at Chicago in 1904 and bellowing to the surprised delegates:

"Three cheers for the president! Hip, hip hurrah!"

He has been yelling "hurrah" hard ever since. He has acquired and rejoiced since then in such titles as "The Boy Orator," "The No. 1 Flag-Waver," "Slogan Symthe," "The Grand Old Party's Megaphone Man," and "The Republican With A Democratic Face."

The last came from his startling profile resemblance to the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. He is pleased with the resemblance, but voted four times against his illustrious double. Looking like other people rather runs in the Smythe family.

"MY FATHER looked like George Washington," he said gravely, "and once he was mistaken for President McKinley."

Smythe, formerly a publisher of children's books, lists as his avocation "the promotion of patriotism." But in recent years he has earned a modest living turning out slogans and trade mark names which he calls "the battle cries of business."

He can scribble out as many as 150 in a night and his total output is "in the tens of thousands." As a Red Cross man overseas in the first World war he coined more than a thousand for the Liberty Loan drives, including "Lend It and End It" and "Do Your Bit To Keep It Lit"—meaning the torch of Liberty.

Among another 1,000 slogan contributions in the second World war were "Swat the Swastika," "Ax the Axis" and "Let's Go To Tokyo."

Still carrying his old 1904 megaphone, Smythe hopes to get the Republican convention to include a pledge of allegiance to the Flag in the opening ceremony.

"I WANT THEM to lay a wreath on Benjamin Franklin's grave, too," he said. "I've got a campaign going to make Franklin the patron saint of peace for the United Nations."

Smythe is a little annoyed at what he regards as the failure of the Republican party to make full use of slogans in its campaigns.

For 1924 he coined "Keep Coolidge He Keeps the Faith!", in 1928 he opposed Al Smith single-handed with "No Contamminayation of the Nation!", in 1932 he failed to sweep the nation for Hoover with "He Kept Us Out of Worse!"; and in 1936 he predicted "Landonslide" with the results known to history.

Never a candidate or delegate himself, Smythe's work is completely a free contribution to his party's welfare.

"I have spent $25,000 of my own money and time working for the Republican party and promoting memorials for Benjamin Franklin," he said.

HE SMILED a little wistfully and said:

"I haven't been well lately. I've lost a lot of weight."

Then he brightened and added with his old cheerful vigor:

"You know what people tell me since I lost so much weight? They say I look just like Woodrow Wilson."

Savages' Medicine May Aid White Man

MELBOURNE, Australia — Plants used by Australian aborigines for curing warts and ulcers are being sent to the United States for examination by medical scientists.

"The bark of one tree has been found to produce an alkaloid believed to be new to science which has a blistering effect on the skin," the announcement said. "This alkaloid is similar to strychinine. It is now being investigated at Oxford University.

U.S. Rent Director Not Subject To Suit

By The United Press

CHICAGO—Tenants cannot sue the federal rent director for approving rent increases under a federal court ruling.

U. S. District Judge Philip L. Sullivan made the ruling when 32 tenants included the rent area director, Norman Shogren, as a defendant in their suit against a landlord for $16,000.

Shogren was included on the ground that he had approved a 20 per cent rent increase. The suit was brought against the landlord on charges that maid service had been cut off in the building.

Judge Sullivan ordered the tenants to file a new case, leaving out Shogren's name as a defendant.

BOOST IN SECURITY AWAITS TRUMAN PEN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 5 — A multi-million dollar boost in social security payments to dependent children, the aged and the blind today needed only President Truman's signature to become law.

A bill adding $184,000,000 annually to the benefits received by 3,500,000 needy persons in those three categories was swiftly shouted through the house yesterday after the senate had approved it by a lopsided 74 to 6 vote.

The legislation would increase the federal social security contribution to the states by $5 a month for the aged and blind, and $3 a month for dependent children.

A maximum of $50 a month would be set for each aged and blind person and $27 for a dependent child.

The boost was tacked onto a bill blocking the extension of social security insurance to an estimated 500,000 to 750,000 persons chiefly salesmen over whom no employer exercises direct control.

The increased benefits amendment may prevent a veto for the bill. Mr. Truman has criticized congress for what he said is a tendency to narrow social security coverage instead of expanding it.

Baseball Game Argument Ends In Fatal Shooting

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, June 5 — A father of five was dead and his best friend held, County Detective Jay Madine reported today, because of an argument which followed the big inning of the Boston Braves in last night's baseball game with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Shot to death in Iskara's bar in suburban Etna was Frank Skertich, 35, of Etna. The detective said that Michael Zack, 37, also of Etna, signed a statement in which he told of shooting his best friend with a .25 caliber pistol.

Madine said Back would be charged with murder. The detective quoted Zack as telling this story:

While the two men were listening to a radio account of the game, they heard Boston scored seven runs in the seventh inning to forge ahead 10-5. Zack offered to bet the Pirates still would win. Skertich accepted the wager and Zack paid off after the game ended in favor of Boston 10-7. Later an argument developed and the men scuffled outside the bar.

Zack left but returned in 10 minutes and after a few more words, fired two shots at Skertich, who slumped to the floor, saying: "He got me."

103, LOOKS FOR JOB, BORED WITH PENSION

By The Associated Press

HAYDEN, Ariz. — Francisco Lopez has been retired for nearly three years and does not like it. He will be 103 next Oct. 4.

He is said to be the oldest person in the United States retired under the old age insurance plan of the federal Social Security Board.

He went on the federal insurance roll Jan. 1, 1939, when he was 93 and worked steadily until he was 100. At that time the Kennecott Copper company for which he had worked since 1900 felt he was entitled to retirement.

He and his wife, Elena, 73, each receive checks for $43.20 monthly from the federal government. But Francisco wants his old job back as gardener and copper mill messenger.

He has just completed a house for himself and his wife. He also keeps busy chopping wood.

Advises Union Men Against Enlistment

By The United Press

CLEVELAND, June 5—A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, today advised his members to avoid becoming potential strikebreakers, by staying out of Army reserve organizations.

Whitney said that in the light of current difficulties between the brotherhoods and the railroads, union members might find themselves "under military orders to serve as strikebreakers" if the government used troops to keep the roads operating.

Whitney outlined his stand in a letter to his union's officials for the Pennsylvania railroad. The Pennsylvana recently sent letters of five units of the transportation railway service reserve. The road requested workers to join.

"I do not feel our members should participate," Whitney said. "They might find themselves under military orders to serve as strikebreakers in a situation such as confronts the railroads and their employes today."

LOYAL CIRCLE MEETS

A meeting of Loyal Circle, Wayside Rose, Rebekah Lodge No. 598 was held Friday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Partlow on Lincoln avenue. The Lord's Prayer by the group opened the meeting and Mrs. J. C. Contest honors were won by Mrs. Ollie Shupp, Mrs. Ethel Everly, Mrs. Jennie Hageman and Mrs. Grace Cyders. The next meeting will be June 18 with Mrs. Clara Bolander of Congress street.

DOWNTOWN DULUTH SWEPT BY FLAMES

By The Associated Press

DULUTH, Minn., June 5 — Fire swept through several [illegible] retail business blocks in the heart of Duluth early today causing damage estimated by police at several million dollars.

A four-story retail [illegible] store and the [illegible] Duluth board of trade building housing the grain exchange and grain commission offices were destroyed by the blaze. Nearly a score of small retail stores burned.

The wind-fanned flames threatened the Northwestern Bell Telephone company's building, the Wolvin building housing the Duluth, Mesabi and Iron Range railway offices and those of the Oliver Mining company before it was brought under control.

Both long distance and local telephone services were disrupted. More than 150 Duluth firemen manned every available piece of Duluth fire apparatus. Other apparatus came from nearby Superior, Wis. One fireman was slightly injured.

Police said the fire apparently started in a four-story building housing the Randolph Furniture company at Third avenue west and First street one block off the city's chief thoroughfare, Superior street.

The flames leaped a street to ignite the Board of Trade building.

Firemen were kept busy extinguishing other smaller roof blazes from a spray of sparks that showered a wide area.

How Fast Is Snail? Says Mile in Decade

By The United Press

PHILADELPHIA — Snail hunting is nothing new to 85-year-old Dr. Henry A. Pilsbury, curator of mollusks at the academy of natural sciences here. His trips to far-off places usually net him from 10,000 to 20,000 specimens.

He has been hunting snails and other lowly members of the animal kingdom for 60 years and now is in Lima, Peru, on another quest.

Dr. Pillsbury, who estimates a snail's pace is about one mile a decade, says Hawaii is the best place to study their activities. But he has visited many countries on his snail hunts and this is his second trip to Peru.

Two Minor Accidents Reported by Officers

The state highway patrol and city police reports today included two minor automobile accidents.

And city police reported a truck driven by Robert Sanders of Richwood was struck by a station wagon driven by Larry Axe of 297 Mt. BABY'S BODY FOUND

BELLEFONTAINE, O., June 5. The decomposed body of a prematurely born baby was found today in the woman's rest room of a roadside park on route 68 five miles north of Bellefontaine. Park caretaker Ben Carey of Sidney said he found the child wrapped in a pair of men's overalls. Medical authorities said the infant apparently was born about a month and a half prematurely but seemed normal and weighed about five pounds. They said the condition of the body indicated it may have been abandoned several weeks ago.

CITIZENS' SCHOOL TEACHES POLITICS

By The United Press

PHILADELPHIA — A "course in practical politics" is teaching wide-eyed Philadelphia voters how to recognize and deal with vote stealing and other illegal practices of the polling places. Believed to be the first course of its kind in the country, it aims at teaching "the facts of politics" to the average citizen, even if the truth hurts.

The teachers are [illegible] leaders, legislators and other practical politicians, rather than professors and orators.

As one speaker told his [illegible] room [illegible] audience: "First we tell you what the law says. Then we tell you what's actually being done in the practical politics in this city."

The course of eight lessons is sponsored by the [illegible] liberal Americans for Democratic Action to "interest a higher type of citizen in going into politics."

It started, [illegible] explained, because a group decided to [illegible] for committeemen, and [illegible] realized they didn't know the first thing about how to do it.

The political [illegible] decided to teach themselves and [illegible] how to deal with fraud at the polling places, [illegible] candidates [illegible] to meet the professional politician on his own ground.

They hired a hall for a series of two-hour lectures and discussion periods every Monday night.

The speakers are "as non-partisan as we can make them," one of the ADA sponsors said. "But it's a little difficult because none of the city hall politicians will come down to talk to us. They're a little shy of what it might lead to."

The overflow audiences composed of trade unionists, housewives, lawyers, teachers, students and a few professional politicians, keep coming back to have their illusions shattered and learn the rules by which politics is played.

"As a result of this course, we expect to elect 100 new committeemen in the city this spring," an ADA official said. "And that goes for both major parties."

Odds Against Twins To Princess Elizabeth

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 5 — Genealogists said today they don't know whether Princess Elizabeth's baby will be a boy or a girl, but the odds are heavy against twins.

The pedigree tracers have looked into the history of Britain's royalty all the way back to William the Conqueror. In that period, almost 900 years, they found no record of twin births to royal couples in near succession to the throne.

"It's amazing," they said. "The odds against Princess Elizabeth having twins are doubtless thousands to one." Ordinarily twins occur about every 90 births.

One of the obstetricians attending Elizabeth is pretty sure her baby, due in the fall, will be a girl. But it is acknowledged that predictions of this nature, based on heartbeats or other criteria, are not certain.

Chipping and Rusting Cabinets

Q.: Our white steel kitchen cabinets are chipping and rusting. The finish originally was baked on. Is there any way to refinish these without taking them out of the kitchen? They are almost impossible to remove.

A.: Go over the whole surface with steel wool moistened with turpentine, and have plenty of ventilation while working. This should remove rust spots and also dull the surface enough to give the new finish a better bond. When the surface is clean and dry apply two coats of enamel undercoater and one coat of enamel. But it would be wise to touch up the bare spots with red lead before refinishing. Before working with steel wool it would be a good precaution to wash the cabinets with hot water containing a "grease cutter," then rinse well.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

Picture at Ohio Based on Novel

"The Woman in White," based on the mystery novel by Wilkie Collins and starring Eleanor Parker, Alexis Smith, Sydney Greenstreet and Gig Young, is showing through Thursday at the Ohio theater. Sharing honors with the quartet of stars are Agnes Moorehead and John Emery.

Most of the action in this story takes place in and around Limmeridge House, a stately home in southern England in the period of 1850. It depicts all the ceremony and dignity of British life in the wealthy classes. Eleanor Parker plays a dual role in the film, that of Anne Catherick, the "woman in white," and also Laura Fairlie, the beautiful daughter of wealth and position.

The story is concerned with the people who occupy the large home over which lurks the haunting figure of the strange "woman in white," whose identity is a mystery.

Opening Friday to run for seven days will be "Fury at Furnace Creek" starring Victor Mature and Coleen Gray. Heading the supporting cast are Glenn Langan and Reginald Gardiner.

Set in the Apache country in 1880, "Fury at Furnace Creek" unfolds the story of two brothers and their battle to clear the name of their father, a U. S. Cavalry officer, who was framed by an unscrupulous silver syndicate in its scheme to open the Indian lands to exploitation. The officer had been accused as responsible for the massacre of a cavalry troop and the historic burning of Fort Furnace Creek.

"Slave Girl" On Screen at State

Ralph Byrd and Kay Christopher are stars of the film, "Dick Tracy's Dilemma," which will head the double feature to be shown Thursday through Saturday. Completing the billing will be "Home in Oklahoma" starring Roy Rogers, Dale Evans and George "Gabby" Hayes.

Story of Indian Wars at Palace

"Fort Apache," an exciting adventure story of Indian warfare in Arizona in the 1870's, opened Friday at the Palace theater and is to continue showing through Thursday. Costarred in the production are John Wayne, Henry Fonda, Shirley Temple and Pedro Armendariz.

John Agar, husband of Shirley Temple, makes his screen debut in this film, and heading the featured cast are Ward Bond, George O'Brien, Victor McLaglen, Anna Lee, Irene Rich, Dick Foran, Guy Kibbee, Grant Withers and Mae Marsh.

"Fort Apache" tells the dramatic story of a stubborn cavalry officer who leads his men to disaster in an effort to win personal glory. John Wayne portrays an experienced cavalry captain at a lonely Army post whose knowledge of the Apaches and their ways is ignored by his new commanding officer, played by Henry Fonda. An arrogant lieutenant-colonel from the East, Fonda, besides refusing to take the advice, also objects to his daughter's romance with a young officer at the fort, which makes him even more unpopular.

When the chief of the Apaches, Chief Cochise and his tribe rebel at the crookedness of an Indian agent, Fonda plans a trap for the chief in order to make a name for himself in Washington, although he is warned that his scheme will fail.

A double feature, "Casbah" and "Here Comes Trouble," will be shown Friday and Saturday. The former stars Yvonne DeCarlo, Tony Martin and Peter Lorre and introduces Marta Toren, and heading the cast in the latter are William Tracy and Joe Sawyer.

"Casbah" is the story of Pepe Le Moko, a fugitive jewel thief in the Casbah at Algiers, who rejects his girl friend for a French girl, who is visiting the North African port. A detective, trying to lure Pepe out of the Casbah in order to imprison him, uses the French girl as bait and finally brings the thief out into the open and to his death.

"Here Comes Trouble," a film in Cinecolor, tells the story of a young newspaper reporter who has the facility of remembering everything, and of his involvement in the murder of a burlesque queen.

Double Feature Billed at Marion

A technicolor musical and a Western adventure film make up the double feature billed to be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion theater. They are "Good News" starring June Allyson and Peter Lawford with Patricia Marshall, Joan McCracken, Ray McDonald and Mel Torme, and "Undercover Man" starring Bill Boyd as "Hopalong" Cassidy.

"Good News" is set on a typical college campus and the plot revolves about the battle of two co-eds for the love of the campus hero. In "Undercover Man," Hopalong Cassidy with his pals battle against a gang of gold thieves and cattle rustlers who threatened friendly relations between the United States and Mexico.

Tuesday through Thursday, the double feature will be "Desire Me" starring Greer Garson, Robert Mitchum and Richard Hart, and "Sign of the Wolf" with Michael Whalen and Grace Bradley.

"Desire Me" is a dramatic love story and tells of a French girl in a small fishing village who must choose between two men, one her husband, and the other a stranger who tries to replace the husband she believes dead.

"French Leave," co-starring Jackie Coogan and Jackie Cooper will be the highlight of a double feature to be shown Friday and Saturday. Completing the double billing will be "Crossed Trails" starring Johnny Mack Brown with Raymond Hatton and Lynne Carver.

The story in "Crossed Trails" concerns a 13-year-old girl who runs away from school to her ranch where her guardian is threatened because he refuses to sell the property. The outlaws are desperate for the land and resort to murder for which they frame the guardian so they can claim the ranch. Then it is up to Brown, the cowboy hero, to save the innocent rancher.

Nick Alivojvodic Wins and Loses in Doubleheader at Portsmouth

Cubs Take First Game, 7-4, But Drop Nightcap, 11-4

Special to The Star

PORTSMOUTH, June 5—Nick Alivojvodic was both the winner and loser in Marion's doubleheader here last night as the Cubs took the seven-inning opener, 7 to 4, but dropped the nightcap, 11 to 4.

The Athletics will journey to Marion for a four-game series which starts with the Harding and St. Mary Booster clubs' benefit game in Lincoln park tonight. On Sunday they'll meet the Cubs in a doubleheader and will make up a rained-out affair Monday night.

Nick pitched no-hit ball for four innings in the first game and allowed only four in the final three frames. In the second contest, he allowed three hits, three runs and two walks in the third inning before being relieved by Mitchell Gegax. Newcomer Wilbur Boerger came in for the final two innings.

Take Early Lead

Marion took a 2-0 lead early in the opener when Bill Bolduc singled and Bob Shuford drove him in with a homer over the center field wall, 345 feet away.

The four runs in the sixth came on a double by Shuford and singles by Ken Ostrander, Pete Schnepf and Alivojvodic, plus a wild pitch that brought Schnepf home. The seventh-inning tally came when Manager Zeke Bekeza doubled, then scored on Bolduc's single.

Portsmouth's runs in the sixth resulted from three walks, a single and a Schnepf error.

The Cubs continued their heavy hitting in the first inning of the finale as Neukirch scored off Bolduc's double and Bolduc came home on Shuford's single. Schnepf tallied in the seventh when Neukirch forced Mislovich at second and Shuford added the fourth run in the eighth off Schmitt's single.

The Athletics' 11-run spree started in the fourth when Manager George Staller banged out his third homer of the year over the center field wall. From that point, it was pretty much the home team's game. The win meant a 3-1 record for Bob Davis, 6-foot, 7-inch hurler from West Virginia.

With Cubs in 1945

Boerger, who was with the Cubs for a short time in 1945 before entering the armed service, was discharged from the Army just this week, and was taken to Portsmouth yesterday afternoon by Marion Cubs President W. Dexter Hazen.

His home is near Plain City, O., in Union county. He stands six-three, tips the scales in the 190s. He throws right.

Sports Chatter On This and That

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., June 5—The Inverness golf club of Toledo has lined up a fine batch of talent for its eleventh annual invitational four-ball tourney June 24-27 inclusive. The eight pairs, who will battle for a $10,000 pot of gold (winners get $3,000, the last placers $600) are:

Ben Hogan and Jim Demaret, winners the last two years; Clayton Heafner and Herman Keiser; Johnny Palmer and Skip Alexander; Lloyd Mangrum and Dick Metz; Bobby Locke and Ed Furgol; Chick Harbert and Vic Ghezzi; Dutch Harrison and Bob Hamilton; and Cary Middlecoff and Jim Ferrier.

OF THE 20 MEN who donned Miami uniforms for last Saturday's Mid-America track meet, 18 scored points as the Redskins counted in every event to cop the conference crown. One Miami entrant who failed to score twisted his ankle on his first pole vault try and was carried to the dressing room.

Although Baldwin-Wallace is favored by most folks to win the Ohio intercollegiate track-field meet today at Ohio Wesleyan, Athletic Director George Gauthier of the Battling Bishops isn't so sure. Gauthier, one of the wisest veterans in the state, gives Miami's Redskins the nod—in a close race.

THE EASTERN AIR FORCE track-field meet is slated June 12 at Columbus West High school, with all Air Force personnel east of the Mississippi and north of the southern borders of Kentucky and Virginia eligible to compete. Winners go to the national Air Force meet at San Antonio, Tex., June 16, from where the victors graduate to the AAU Olympic trials at Chicago.

The return 10-round match between South American heavyweight Arturo Godoy and Columbusite Irish Pat Richard, scheduled here June 14, looks like a bell-ringer. Richard, outpointed in the first bout, has been battering spar mates the last few days. Godoy, his trainer and a sparring partner, are due here at least five days before the scrap. The South American, a knockout and decision loser to champion Joe Louis, is angling for a shot at the winner of the Louis-Walcott title fight scheduled late this month in Yankee stadium.

INDIANAPOLIS WINS OVER COLUMBUS, 6-5

By The Associated Press

A pair of great rallies featured Friday night's activity in the only two American Association games scheduled.

Indianapolis added a half game to boost its lead over second place Milwaukee to 6½ games by downing Columbus 6-5. The Tribe rallied twice to do it as the Red Birds fashioned leads of 3-0 and 5-3. The Indians tied it each time and finally sent across the deciding run in the seventh inning. Tom Saffell walked, took second on a wild pitch, went to third on Jack Cassini's safe bunt and scored on a short fly to left field.

Hitting honors went to Columbus' Bill Baker, who collected one double and two singles in three trips. This gave him nine hits in his last trips.

Louisville rallied gamely with five runs in the ninth inning, but lost to Toledo, 8 to 6. Chet Johnson was driven to the showers in the outburst after working with an 8-1 lead. A double by Augie Bergamo, an error by Bud Kimball, two walks, a hit batsman and a pinch double by Frank Trechock did the damage. Emery Rudd went to the rescue and erased pinch-hitter Ellis Deal for the third out.

YANKS CLUB BRAVES IN ZANY 0-1 GAME

By The Associated Press

For weird and zany affairs, take a peek at the Ohio-Indiana baseball league.

That 11-2 victory Newark clubbed out over Richmond last night, for instance, produced a minor gang war that earned one Claude Knight of Richmond a trip to the showers.

Now Mr. Knight is the Richmond groundkeeper. But, he tried to break up a fist fight among Richmond's first baseman Paul Mullin and two unidentified Newark bullpen choremen. While engaged in this cheerless occupation, Mr. Knight ran afoul of Newark's Manager Bob Dill.

Mullin, Dill and Knight were ejected by the umpires after some mild mixing among the more excitable fans and most of the players of both teams.

In that same contest, left fielder John Krcmina of Richmond parked a long fly ball against a light standard in fair territory. By the time the fielder had caught up with the ball somewhere back of the stands, Krchina was home with an inside-the-park home run.

Furthermore, centerfielder John Regan of Richmond sailed into a swan dive trying for a close one and hurt his shoulder, so the Braves ended this fantastic game with three pitchers in action: one on the mound, one on first base and one in centerfield.

In other contests Zanesville trampled Muncie's league-leading Reds, 10-3, Lima clubbed Springfield into submission, 10-8, and Marion and Portsmouth split up a double bill. Marion took the first, 7-4, and Portsmouth the after piece, 11-4.

The line scores:

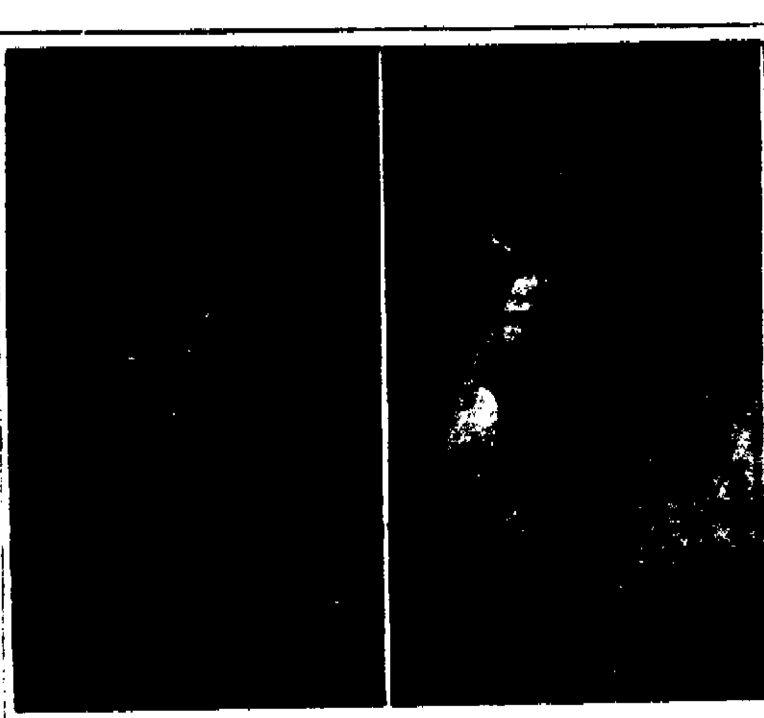
Panama Dashman Beats World Record

By The Associated Press

COMPTON, Calif., June 5 — Panama's lanky Lloyd La Beach bettered the 220-meter world mark and tied the 220 yard and 100-meter records in a brilliant flash of speed at Compton's ninth annual invitational track and field meet last night.

He first ran the 100 meters in 10.2 seconds, equalling the world mark shared by Jesse Owens of Ohio State and Hal Davis of California.

He ran the 200 meters in 20.2 seconds, bettering the world mark of 20.3 set by Owens in 1935 and he was clocked at the longer 220-yard distance in 20.3 which ties Owens' mark.



BASEBALL WITH RODEO VARIATIONS. Gus Niarhos (38), New York Yankees catcher, waits for ball (left) as Detroit Tigers rightfielder Pat Mullin slides home under him in the eleventh inning of a game in Yankee Stadium, New York yesterday. Umpire Charley Berry motions Mullin safe (center) as he turns to watch ball which has gone past Niarhos. Mullin starts to rise and takes Niarhos with him. Still carrying Niarhos (right), Mullin gets to his feet as Berry looks toward playing field. Mullin's score broke 2-2 tie and started Tigers on four-run inning. (AP Wirephoto)

SAUER HOMERS TWICE BUT REDS LOSE, 5-4

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 5 — Hank Sauer's 40-ounce bat, heaviest in the majors, provided salve for the sting of defeat here yesterday as the Cincinnati Reds blew a three-run lead in bowing to the New York Giants, 5-4.

Big Hank pounded two home runs, Nos. 15 and 16, which strengthened his position as leading circuit-drive producer in the major leagues.

The Reds posted two runs in the first inning. Frankie Baumholtz started things off with a hit and scored later from third, as Grady Hatton flied out. Then Sauer drove the ball over the left field wall.

Baumholtz scored again in the third. After forcing Ray Lamanno at second, he came all the way home from first on Claude Corbitt's double.

Kent Peterson, Cincinnati's young southpaw, tossed one-hit ball the first four innings, but the Giants broke the ice in the fifth with a run on doubles by Sid Gordon and Mickey Livingston. The visitors tied the score in the sixth frame and won in the eighth, scoring two runs on bases on balls to Johnny Mize, Virg Stallcup's first error in nine games and Buddy Kerr's two-run single to right.

Sauer slammed another homer over the left field enclosure in the Reds' half of the inning.

The New Yorkers got eight hits off Peterson and reliefer Harry Gumbert, who took over in the eighth. Peterson was the loser.

Three Giant pitchers, Andy Hansen, Dave Koslo and Sheldon (Available) Jones, allowed seven hits. Koslo was credited with the triumph.

ASCOT OPENS

AKRON, O., June 5. A 19-day horse race meeting opened today at nearby Ascot Park.

American Legion Juniors To Open Baseball Season at Lima Tomorrow

The Marion American Legion Junior baseball opener scheduled with Mt. Gilead tomorrow has been canceled due to the withdrawal of Mt. Gilead from the league. Manager W. E. Orcutt announced today, and the Marion Juniors will open tomorrow at Lima instead. Lima is not a member of the Sixth district Legion league.

Mt. Gilead team officials, as well as Mt. Sterling, announced the withdrawal of their teams from the Sixth district league at the last meeting of league officials at Delaware.

Two League Games

League games being played tomorrow will have London at Delaware and Newark at Sunbury. These four teams, plus Marion and Mt. Vernon make up the Sixth district league.

Mt. Vernon will host Marion a week from today in the first league game for both teams. From that time on, the local Juniors will play 18 games and the Sixth district tournament—July 16, 17, 18—in rapid succession. The semi-finals of the tournament will be played at Newark the first two days, and the finals at Lincoln Park on the eighteenth.

Other Marion contests and the dates of the games according to a revised schedule include: June 13 at Shelby; 19, Mansfield; 20, at Galion; 23, Shelby; 26, at London; 27, at Mansfield; July—4, at Delaware; 5, Newark; 10, Sunbury; 11, Detroit; 18, tournament; 24, Mt. Vernon; 25, at Newark; 31, London; Aug.—4, Delaware; 8, Galion; 14, at Sunbury.

Furnish Transportation

Transportation for the team on road trips consist of two station wagons furnished by the Lincoln-Mercury Motor Sales Co., co-sponsors of the team. The team will leave from the American Legion Dugout at 1 p. m. in order to arrive at Lima City Park in plenty of time for the game at 3 p. m.

Nelson Irvin, coach, says the team is rounding into beautiful shape and that he will probably carry 20 players on the trip tomorrow. The team will be cut to 16, allotted number allowed by the league, by June 20. Probable starters for tomorrow's contest, he said, will be Merle Daum, P; Jim Seiter, C; Jack Daum, 1B; Dick Roseberry, 2B; Dick Thomas, SS; Ron Gorby or Dick Wolfe, 3B; Tom Taylor, LF; George Stoffer, CF; Bill Nickol, RF.

Pitching Good

The pitching department, strongest department of the team, includes Jim Edington, Bob Seedle, Dick Jones and Ronnie Larcom, a formidable group of mound artists. Larcom is reputed to have the most stuff on the ball, and Daum the most steam. Others sure to see action include Dick Cramer, catcher; Bill Merchant, Emmet Ledford, Jim Williams, Gene Thomas and Vince Fazio, utility outfielders, and Greg Graham and Dick Leffler, utility infielders.

BOB NIEMAN STILL WEARS SWAT CROWN

Muncie Outfielder Leads O-I League with .402 Average.

Bob Nieman, Muncie outfielder, still wears the Ohio-Indiana league's swatting crown, figures released today by the Howe News Bureau reveal.

The Muncie slugger leads in four departments — in batting average with a hefty .402, in total bases with 81, in runs batted in with 34, and in home runs with six.

Joe Echoo of Newark ranks second with a .377, right above Richmond's Bob Fruciano who is batting .367. Fruciano is the stealthiest Ohio-Indiana leaguer, his 17 base thefts being three above his nearest competitor, Carl Hosier of Springfield.

Four Marion players are among the select batting above .300—Tony Mislovich, Bob Shuford, Nick Alivojvodic and Bill Bolduc. As a club, the Cubs stand second, two points off the .276 pace set by the league leading Muncie Reds.

Muncie also leads in fielding percentage, which probably accounts for its big lead in the league. The Reds have bobbled but 68 chances in 1,221 for a .944 fielding average. Marion ranks sixth in fielding with a .926 average.

Springfield's Joe Greco is the leading pitcher with a 6-1 record. Ken Lanning of Muncie, Len Klaus of Springfield, and Larry Miller of Muncie all have 5-1 marks. Dick McEvoy of Newark has appeared in the most games — 16 — but holds a 1-4 record.

Marion's Nick Alivojvodic is the strike out leader with 61 whiffs to his credit. As of last Monday's games, which are included in the records, Nick has won six and lost four.

Sunken Ships Tend To Bottle Chicago River

By The United Press

CHICAGO—Sunken ships in the Chicago river are creating a menace to navigation on that link between the Great Lakes and the Mississippi river, according to a city official.

Harbor Master W. L. Lynch says there are at last 15 wrecks that are dangerous to shipping.

Difficulties arise because jurisdiction over river waters is shared by the city and the federal government, with the city being responsible for the area 20 feet out from shore. Owners of ships that sink in the city sections are charged with their removal but the public works commission is seeking ways to make that regulation stronger.

When traveling in the 18th century, many people carried with them small silver boxes holding nutmeg so that they could spice their food as they wished. These boxes had an inner lid made like a grater to rub the nutmeg on.
